Hi Michael,

Hope everything is well with you and Nancy.

I had a chance to chat with a couple of Mexican supervisors at my work last week, and I found out that the Mexican people have the similar cultures like Asian, which mean they take care of their elderly parents when they got older.

These women have a stressful full time job, and after they get home they will cook, clean and take care of their parents. One woman told me that her 85 years old father has dementia for 10 years now, and his mind like a child doesn't feed or take care of himself. In the morning, they have a caregiver, but at night my co worker would stay there with him to take him to the bathroom, and feed him. She says he would get up 3 times a night and walk around.

So, after hearing that story and it brought me back many times Ba (our father) would told me how Quang financial abused him, and his wife Oanh verbally about him.

Ba told me that Quang has borrowed $6,000 from Ba, and just paid back a little then borrowed a couple of small loans from Ba. Also, To my recollection that Quang raised Ba's rent due to at one time Quang's hours from work got cut back. Also, a few times Quang was threatened to kick Ba out if he won't get more money from you Michael.

Also, many times Ba has complained Oanh has disrespectful to Ba, and talk down to him.

Ba's eyes not seeing well, and they don't allowed Ba to turn a small light on during the day. His bathroom was very dark for even a young person eyes.

Our family keep saying because Quang's wife from the South. and that's how she talks. I don't agree with it. I have known many peoples from the South, and they always respect elderly.

Our family might say that was the past. I don't care it's the past or the present, and I don't like nasty peoples treated our elderly father like that. I told Ba a couple of times if he wants me to talk to them, and Ba begged me not to do it. So many times Ba told me. that he feels really depressed.

I wonder how Quang and his wife Oanh would treat Ba if he has dementia or other medical conditions that can not take care of himself.

The bottom line is if Quang and Oanh treated Ba like that, then I wonder how are they going to treat me, So, my final decision that I will not be moving in to Quang's home after he build the rooms

If Quang is a decent person. then he would return you $3,000.

I can't talk tonight, due to my roommate is in the next door room, but if you want me to talk to you either on my break tomorrow Monday @10am or after work @5:45pm.

Jan
